

Opposition to Amendment From 3 Sides

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Opposition to the proposed States Rights Amendment to the Arkansas Constitution cropped up in three separate places yesterday.

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) denounced the proposal, which will appear on the November general election ballot, as a dangerous step and declared in a Little Rock television interview that he could not see how anyone would vote for it.

At Newport Fred M. Pickens, an attorney and state Democratic Party official, described himself as unalterably opposed to the measure and said he would start a drive against it.

Pickens, a member of the state Democratic Party's Executive Committee, announced he would ask the help of the Jackson County Bar Assn. in fighting the proposal.

He said that if "people really know what this proposal is, they will defeat it."

The attorney, a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Arkansas, said an educational program to acquaint voters with the provisions of the amendment would be inaugurated soon.

Author of the proposal, which would establish a commission with far-reaching investigative powers and tighten voting requirements, was segregationist leader Jim Johnson of Crossett.

The third swipe at the proposal came from the Sheridan Ministerial Alliance. Members yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the amendment.

Hays said that he and other Congressmen had talked a good deal about federal invasion of state prerogatives.

"As early as 1952 I foresaw, for example, the effect of the Supreme Court order for desegregation," he said. "And I have sought, as everyone knows, to help find a way out of the difficulties it brought on."

Front and Side View of Hope's New Safeway Store

— All Photos and Engravings by Hope Star

Completely New Safeway Store Opens for Business on Tuesday on West Third Street

The local store, one of 2,200 operated from coast to coast, by the second largest food chain in the land, is located on West Third Street only a few blocks from the heart of downtown Hope.

The new Hope Safeway Store is one of the most modern yet built in Arkansas. It contains 10,000 square feet of floor space and has unlimited parking space for customers on both sides of the building. The paved parking area is well lighted with the very latest in Mercury Vapor fixtures.

The interior of the store is tastefully painted in beautiful pastel colors with Lucite Wall Scrolls for easy and faster shopping. Four checking stands assures fast and adequate check out service. The meat department is self service and one of the most modern and up to date. Frozen Food departments in the state and variety will be no problem.

Naturally, the entire store is completely air conditioned.

Safeway came into being about 30 years ago and though it is comparatively young in years, Safeway is known through the industry as being a leader in all phases of food retailing.

The Arkansas Division of Safeway covers the entire state, which includes, besides the 30 retail stores, a large distribution center, a modern up-to-date bakery, an ice cream plant and an egg candling plant.

Don Griner will manage the new store. He is a native of Arkansas and comes to Hope from the company's store in Stuttgart. Charles Wessels will serve as assistant manager and also comes to Hope from Stuttgart. Truman (Ben) Ballentine will handle the meat department, coming here from McGhee. And Buddy Neel is the produce manager and he comes here from Arkadelphia.

Other personnel of the store includes Mrs. Lucy Gilliams, Mrs. Virginia Mackey, Mrs. Bobby Hill, James Ellis, Neal Crank, Herschel Johnson, Dale Gardner, Lee Wall and R. C. Turner.

President Gets Report on Trouble

By MARY L. ARROWSMITH

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower today got reports on latest developments in the Far East crisis—including Red China's renewed artillery bombardment of the Nationalists' embattled Quemoy Island.

The vacationing President received the reports in a telephone talk with the White House staff secretary, Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, who was in Washington.

The President arranged to talk by phone later with Secretary of State Dulles, also in Washington. The word the Chinese Communists had resumed bombardment of Quemoy after a lull of 2 1/2 days—came less than 24 hours after the President had served new notice that free world allies bound under the Southeast Asia Treaty will stand firm against the general Communist challenge.

The President was cautiously hopeful about peace in the Far East as he served notice free world allies will stand firm against the Communist challenge.

China Calls for Talks as Red Guns Open Up on Nationalist Islands

No Attempt Is Made Against U. S. Warships

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red Chinese guns reopened their artillery war on the Nationalist offshore islands today, blasting a Nationalist supply ship at a Quemoy beach but making no attempt to menace U.S. warships offshore.

The artillery bombardment, ending a 2 1/2-day lull in the vest pocket war, came after Nationalist jets fought a furious air battle with Red MIGs off the mainland near Swatow this morning. The Nationalists claimed seven MIGs shot down and two damaged.

As the vest pocket war burst open again, Peking radio announced that Red China was willing to reopen ambassadorial links in Warsaw on the tense situation in the Formosa Strait. The broadcast quoted Communist party chief Mao Tze-tung as saying the talks "might lead to some results, provided both sides wanted to settle the question."

The Red artillery attack was concentrated on Quemoy beach areas. The supply ship suffered two direct hits and exploded. Officials here said it may have been destroyed.

Presumably the ship was escorted to Quemoy by U.S. warships. U.S. headquarters here refused to confirm or deny that the supply ship was escorted to Quemoy. A blanket of secrecy was thrown over escort operations.

But the Nationalists indicated U.S. destroyers were near Quemoy at the time of the bombardment and will insist Red China's newly proclaimed 12-mile sea border.

Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet, said Sunday American warship escorts would be the routine thing in the Formosa Strait now. The first daylight escort was carried out Sunday and the American ships remained a few miles off the Quemoy beach and seven miles off the Red mainland. U.S. ships are staying outside the generally recognized three-mile sea limit of Red China but refuse to abide by the communists' new 12-mile ruling.

The Red artillery pounding opened at 1:33 p.m. and raged for

Legal Action Simmers Over Integration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Legal action simmered in Arkansas and Virginia today at the start of a week of decision in the nation's integration crisis.

The decision was expected to come after Thursday's U. S. Supreme Court hearing on the Little Rock case — a decision that may have decisive influence on the speed of integration in the South.

In the meantime, legal maneuvering continued and a slowly growing number of children at integrated mixed classes in border states. The Deep South remained segregated, however.

At Van Buren, a northwest Arkansas city, U. Simpson Tate, regional counsel for the NAACP, was making legal plans for the return of 14 Negroes to Van Buren High School despite threats of some white pupils to block integration by force. He declined to say what kind of action he would take.

Integration resistance flared last Tuesday, the start of the fall term, when hostile white youths greeted Negroes with jeers and warnings to stay away. About 45 whites cut classes Thursday and Friday and staged a boycott demonstration outside the school. The Negroes stayed away from classes Friday.

In Virginia, the state's legal battle to avoid mixing the races in the schools headed for a test in U. S. Dist. Judge John Paul's court at Harrisonburg.

Protesting parents of 30 Negro pupils denied admission to Charlottesville white schools are to appear before him along with school board officials. The judge also has asked attorneys for 20 Negro children to have an order ready for his signature. This order would allow the parents to block integration by force. He declined to say what kind of action he would take.

The situation in two other Virginia localities apparently depended on the outcome of Thursday's Supreme Court hearing. Dist. Judges Walter Hoffman and Albert Bryan have said they would be guided in their deliberations on the Norfolk and Arlington suits by what the high court decides.

Over the weekend, Rep. Brooks felt the integration crisis could not be solved in the South until the Supreme Court modified its 1954 desegregation decision. He was interviewed on local television.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus told a state Democratic convention the Supreme Court and the Eisenhower administration lacked the common sense and moderate thinking which could ease the threat of integration violence.

U. S., Chinese Groups to Meet in Warsaw

LONDON (AP) — Red China's Mao Tze-tung today gave the green light for talks over the Formosa situation with the United States in Warsaw.

He said such talks "might lead to some results provided both sides wanted to settle the question." Peking radio reported today, chairman of the Chinese Communist party, spoke to the Red Chinese Supreme State Council.

The radio said: "Chairman Mao was hopeful about the ambassadorial talks between China and the United States which would begin in Warsaw."

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States prepared today for hoped-for early talks with Red China, but kept high its guard against Communist military action in the embattled Formosa Strait.

U. S. Ambassador Jacob Beam in Warsaw awaited notice from Chinese Communist Ambassador Wang Ping-nan there that the talks could start.

But the memory that Red China did some of its fiercest fighting in Korea during armistice talks kept the U. S. 7th Fleet on alert around Formosa.

Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai said over the weekend that he favored a renewal of U. S.-Red Chinese ambassadorial talks for "safe-guarding the peace in the Far East." The United States had tried twice last month to get the talks going again, so the White House warmly welcomed the offer.

Ambassador Beam's orders were to wait a few days and, if no word came from Ambassador Wang, to call the Communist envoy and find out when he was prepared to meet in Warsaw.

Western diplomats braced for a new Communist push to split Red China in the United Nations. They said the Red Chinese bombardment of the Nationalist offshore islands clearly was aimed not only at probing U. S. intentions, but also at stirring up a ruckus on the eve of the 13th U. N. General Assembly starting Sept. 10 at New York.

U. S. determination to carry a big stick while talking softly was evident in the activities of the 7th Fleet. For the first time during daylight Sunday, the U. S. warships conveyed Nationalist supply ships from Formosa to the offshore islands, and it was disclosed they had been doing the same at night since Wednesday.

The Red Chinese made no effort to interfere.

Last Election to Be Held in September

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Today's Maine election is the last to be held in September.

Why is it the last? And why was September chosen in the first place?

Records of the 1810 constitutional convention, just before Maine became a state, show that delegates wanted a date between early and late harvests "as being the least busy season."

Apparently November, when all other states elect, wasn't even considered. In those days November rains often made dirt roads all but impassable.

So, over since winning statehood, Maine has elected on the second Monday of September.

The early date spawned the old saw: "As Maine goes, so goes the nation."

For 30 years opponents of September voting, mostly Democrats, fought to have Maine join the other states.

They argued that the state got little for the thousands of people an extra election every presidential year. Supporters talked of the early election's publicity value and greater campaign contributions from national party war chests.

But it wasn't until 1957 that the proponents of change mustered enough bipartisan support in the Legislature to get a constitutional amendment before the public.

The measure failed in 1958 and starting in 1960 Maine will vote on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

F. H. Martin, education director of the state Forestry Commission, said it would be the first statewide meeting of its kind in the South.

Venezuela Is Again Beset by Strikes

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A general strike closed this troubled capital today in the wake of another military attempt to seize power from a government Junta striving to restore democracy in Venezuela.

Union leaders threatened to continue the walkout until their demands for disbanding rebellious military police and for disciplining some army officers are met.

oppose the steps some are advocating as correctives. I refer to the so-called States Rights Amendment to be voted on in November, which would do violent damage to individual liberties and local self-government which are vital parts of our constitutional system.

Hays said it would be tragic to set up a state commission to oppose and threaten the federal government, particularly in "this time of world crisis when our enemy is powerful and intent on exploiting every division among us."

Pickens, who headed the Arkansas delegation to the National Democratic Convention in 1952 and served as a delegate to the 1956 national convention, lauded Hays for his stand on the proposal.

"That's wonderful," he said when informed of the congressman's statements.

At Sheridan the Rev. Mark K. Reid, president of the Ministerial Alliance, said the ministers adopted their resolution after a study of the proposed amendment.

"We are for states rights," said the resolution, "But we feel that the title of this proposed amendment is misleading. If adopted, a commission would be formed which would be given extensive power over the lives of individual citizens and organizations, including the churches."

"If, for example, anything should be said in any church service that does not meet the approval of the commission, it may be labeled 'communistic,' and the church may be closed."

The resolution said the functions of voting privileges, educational facilities and taxation could be seriously impaired by the commission.

The Rev. Mr. Reid is a former pastor of Sheridan First Christian Church and now attends Little Rock University. Pastors of Baptist, Methodist and Assembly of God churches also signed the resolution.

Central Committee announced full mobilization had been ordered. It was not clear whether full mobilization was part of a shift by Red China to a war footing or whether it was simply another effort to make a great leap forward in the Peiping regime's industrialization and agricultural build-up.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called a drift toward war with China without friends or allies and over issues "not worth a single American life."

He said the administration seems to have decided "to defend Quemoy even though it leads to world war." The administration, he said, has maneuvered itself to a point where it has lost control of the situation at the mercy of both Chiang Kaishek and the Communists.

The statement by Acheson was prepared before Red China's offer to start talking. The White House declines comment.

Van Buren Strike Seems Near an End

By RICHARD DAW

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP)—The strike of white students at Van Buren High School against integration appeared near an end today as the struggle over mixed racial classes moved into federal court.

None of the 13 Negroes enrolled at Van Buren High showed up today and about 20 of the 45 white students, who boycotted classes last week protesting integration, reconvened school this morning.

The Negroes apparently were content to wait for action on a petition by attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed this morning in U. S. District Court at Fort Smith.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas, Tex., NAACP regional counsel, asked that the Van Buren School Board be held in contempt for failing to protect Negro students.

Immediately after filing the petition, Tate left for Hot Springs where he opened a 2-week court session today. Tate indicated he would seek to have Judge Miller take immediate action on his petition.

George Links, chairman of a citizen's committee which had voted to support the student boycott, returned his three children to Van Buren High today and said he believed the boycott was near an end.

Links said parents of the students involved would meet tonight to determine further action.

School officials could not give an immediate figure on how many of the protesting students had returned to classes, but they said the number probably would be about 20.

"I have no fight with the school officials," Links said. "I believe this thing will be settled peacefully. I'm certainly working for that."

On a corner across from the school where the student boycotters gathered last week there was a group of about 25 boys and girls today. A few parents stood with the students.

Van Buren, a city of 6,000, was integrated at the high school level in September, 1957. Negroes had sued in federal district court for the right to attend school with whites but an integration agreement was reached before a ruling on the case was made and the suit was dismissed.

At least three Van Buren ministers yesterday appealed from their pulpits for calm in dealing with the student boycott.

"This is not a time for demonstrations to convince others of our prejudices," said the Rev. V. L. Schmidt, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Similar pleas were made by the Rev. Franklin Wilder, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church and the Rev. Harry Wood, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The white students involved in the boycott have asked Gov. Orval Faubus to intervene and help keep the high school segregated.

But the governor said during the weekend that he thought the Van Buren situation was quieter and had no plans for taking action.

Florist Telegraph Delivery Assn., longer than anyone else in Arkansas, was honored at an association luncheon here yesterday.

The "This Is Your Life" type event was a surprise to the 73-year-old florist, who opened her shop at Pine Bluff 33 years ago.

Miss Loomis recalled how her business prospered after a small beginning. She and her brother, Arthur Loomis, now employ five persons.

The floral business has undergone a complete transformation since she moved to Pine Bluff from Colorado, Miss Loomis said.

She told how in former times the nearest flower market was Chicago and orders took 21 hours to arrive by train. Now, Miss Loomis said, most of the flowers needed can be ordered from Little Rock and arrive in an hour.

Miss Loomis is a native of Nebraska. The Florist Telegraph Delivery Assn. met in conjunction with the Arkansas Florist Assn., which ended a 3-day convention here yesterday.

12.1 Million Cotton Bales Are Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's government-controlled cotton crop at 12,150,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This estimate is 52,000 bales more than the department's August forecast of 11,580,000 bales. It also compares with last year's very small crop of 1,564,000 bales and with the 10-year (1947-1956) average of 14,130,000 bales.

The crop will be supplemented by reserve and surplus supplies of about 8,750,000 bales accumulated from past big crops.

Cotton is being grown on the smallest acreage since 1870 under a government crop control and soil bank land reclamation program.

In an accompanying report, the Census Bureau said 1,000,257 running bales from this year's crop had been ginned prior to Sept. 1. This compared with 969,077 ginned to the same date last year and 1,510,410, two years ago.

The cotton acreage expected to be abandoned before harvest was put at 3.6 per cent. This would leave the acreage for harvest at 11,960,000 acres compared with 13,558,000 last year.

The yield per acre harvested was forecast at an average of 498 pounds compared with 398 last year and 317 for the ten-year average.

The production of American — Egyptian type cotton was forecast at 85,998 bales compared with 81,900 last year and 41,000 for the 10-year average.

The percentage of the cotton land to be abandoned, the acreage for harvest, the yield per acre and the production, respectively, by states were forecast as follows:

North Carolina 1.8 per cent abandonment; 270,000 acres for harvest; 382 pounds per acre and production 215,000 bales.
Tennessee 2.4; 410,000; 527 and 450,000.
Mississippi 3.4; 1,145,000; 503 and 1,200,000.
Missouri 2.6; 300,000; 520 and 325,000.
Arkansas 1.9; 1,030,000; 527 and 1,130,000.
Louisiana 3.4; 375,000; 525 and 410,000.
Oklahoma 5; 420,000; 360 and 270,000.
Texas 4.8; 5,340,000; 375 and 4,200,000.

ed at midnight Sunday. Eight of the deaths resulted from traffic accidents.

A farm accident, two shootings, a fire and a train accident accounted for the other deaths.

Robert Upton, 20, of Van Buren was killed and three companions injured when an automobile missed a curve and overturned on State Highway 103 at Harmony, 10 miles northwest of Clarksville.

The injured were William Indley, 20, and Glenda Ganner and Norma Beth Frost. Upton and Indley were students at the College of the Ozarks. The girls attend Clarksville High School.

A 14-year-old farm boy was crushed to death near Sheridan yesterday when a tractor he was operating overturned on him.

The victim was Bobby Lee Owens, whose family lives nine miles southeast of Sheridan. He was driving the tractor home from a field.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Owens, three brothers and five sisters. Charles Daniel Stricklin, 23, of Alexander, was killed yesterday in a head-on automobile crash on U.S. Highway 67-70 near Benton.

Injured in the crash was Huey nationalist landing ships loaded with 300 tons of ammunition to Quemoy.

It was the first American escort of a daylight convoy to the beleaguered island, although Reakey disclosed that his ships had been shepherding supply ships to Quemoy at night since last Wednesday.

Holmes, 40, of North Little Rock. He was hospitalized with serious injuries at Little Rock.

The men were alone in their cars. State police said Stricklin's vehicle veered across the highway into the path of the other car.

A 60-year-old transient was found critically injured on railroad tracks at Little Rock Saturday night and died a short time later.

He was tentatively identified as J. D. Pritchett but authorities were unable to determine his home address immediately.

One of Pritchett's legs had been severed and an arm was mangled. A Rock Island passenger train passed over the tracks shortly before he was found, officers said.

Funeral services will be held at Springdale today for Mack Lee Hinds, 40, who died Friday night in a Springdale hospital of injuries suffered in a freak highway accident.

Hinds, a Springdale wrecker operator, was injured last Monday when he jumped into a rolling automobile while on a wrecker call. The vehicle's brakes failed. Hinds was thrown out and fell beneath the wheels.

Bucks Surprise Team of the National Loop

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 10 telling days are over for the Pittsburgh Pirates. But if the Bucks missed a storybook finish in that span, they did no less than stamp themselves baseball's surprise team of 1958 and make Danny Murtagh a top choice of the National League Manager of the year.

In a 13-day showdown, the Pirates faced their final seven games with the first place Milwaukee Braves. They trailed by 7 1/2 games when it started, lost two of three at Milwaukee and were third, 9 1/2 games back, going into the final four at Pittsburgh Friday night.

They came out with a 3-1 edge in the series, holding the world champions to an 11-11 standstill for the season with a doubleheader split in the final Sunday. They won 4-1 after W. W. "The Wonder" Spahn had taken the opener 8-1 for the Braves, his 19th victory.

It was the last chance anybody had of catching the Braves, who lead by 7 1/2 with 16 games to play. But the Pirates, who have finished last or next to last for the past eight years, went a long way toward ridding down second place, taking a two-game lead over third place San Francisco.

The Chicago Cubs swept a pair from the Giants 6-4 and 4-1. Los Angeles hammered St. Louis 7-5 and Cincinnati grabbed a 2-1 game hold on fourth place by taking two at Philadelphia 6-4 and 9-2.

In the American League, New York and Washington split shutouts. The Yankees won 7-0 after a 1-0 defeat and a three-run outburst. Cleveland defeated second place Chicago 4-3. Boston beat Baltimore 6-5 in 10 innings, and Kansas City dumped Detroit 3-2.

Spahn's 24th victory in the majors put him within one of his

Ramos Defeats Yanks, Braves, Bucks Split

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The yep should have spoken up a bit sooner.

It wasn't until August 19 that Vice President Nixon, taking in a ball game at Washington, told Pete Ramos "I expect you to win 17 games."

"I've only won 11 and I've never won more than 12," said the Senators' slim right-hander. "And there's not much of the season left."

"I know you can do it," answered the yep.

Ramos said he'd try.

Try? Well, the kid from Cuba has won three of five since and has pitched successive six-hit shutouts against the New York Yankees, en route to their 24th American League pennant.

Ramos extended his scoreless string against the champs to 22 1/3 innings Sunday, giving Washington its first 1-0 victory in five years, before the Yankees made one of their infrequent of late shows of strength by winning the nightcap 7-0 on Duke Maas' four-hitter.

The split gave the Yankees a final 12-10 standing against the last place Nats.

Cleveland dumped second place Chicago 4-3. Boston beat Baltimore 6-5 in 10 innings and Kansas City rapped Detroit 3-2.

In the National League, Milwaukee split at Pittsburgh, winning 3-1 as Warren Spahn won his 19th, then losing 4-1. The Chicago Cubs took two from San Francisco, 6-4 and 4-1. Cincinnati swept Philadelphia 6-4 and 9-2. Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 7-5.

A two-run pinch double by Bob by Avila won for the Indians against Dick Donovan (12-13) in the eighth. Ray Bone hit a two-run homer for the White Sox, who were blanked over the last seven innings by Don Ferrarese, winner Ray Narleski (12-10) and Morrie Martin.

Red Sox Dave Sisti (8-8) was the winner with Bill Parsons (9-9) the loser, both in relief.

The A's were shut out by Frank Larv (14-14) on four hits until the ninth. Then a walk, singles by Bob Cerv and Preston Ward, a fielder's choice and Bill Tully's single got the job done. Ray Herbert (6-7) was the winner, with Ned Garver's hitless mop up in the ninth. The Tigers had only four hits. One Dick Wilson's two-run homer in the eighth.

Vern Law (12-11) then blanked the Braves, who chopped their magic number to 10, on four hits before needing relief in the nightcap ninth. Lew Burdette (10-10) was the loser.

Walt Moryn's 22nd and 24th homers were good for three runs and Lee Walls' 24th, a three-run shot in the eighth, then wrapped up the opener for the Cubs and rookie Bob Anderson (2-1). Dick Drott (7-11) followed with a three-hit back up by Ernie Banks' 44th homer and clinching two-run eighth-inning double.

Banks' home run, off loser Ruben Gomez (8-12), ended a shut-out duel in the seventh and matched his major league record for shortstops, set in 1956. Mike McCormick (11-8) lost the opener.

For the Reds, Hal Jeffcoat (8-8) was the first game winner and Dick Farrell (7-9) the loser, both in relief. In the nightcap, Joe Nixhall (12-10) won, Seth Morehead (11-5) lost.

Dodger Johnny Podres (13-12) won with relief help—hitting his major league high after losing nine in a row on the road. Larry Jackson (12-11) lost it, his first defeat ever by the Dodgers, in St. Louis.

Hawkins Seeks Another Title

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., tied off today in the $17,000 Utah Open hunting his second major golf victory.

Hawkins, whose only other big-time win was in the 1956 Oklahoma City Open, came from nowhere with a 10-under-par 62 in the third round over the 6,984-yard Salt Lake Country Club course. He had a 54-hole total of 199.

The 62 equaled the competitive course mark.

Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto, Calif., kept up their under-70 of 18-hole pace setter with a hot hand a third-round 67 and Rosburg a 68.

Tom Nieporie, Bronxville, N.Y., who had the 36-hole lead with 132, added a 70 in the third round and was tied with Arnold Palmer, La-Trobe, Pa., at 202.

In a potent group just behind Jay Bill Collins, Baltimore, at 203; Jim Tureza, Elmsford, N.Y., the 18-hole pace setter with 204, and Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., at 205.

The BRAND RIDER

by ED LA VANWAY

Copyright 1958 by Ed La Vanway, Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

She said something about Lane to the man on horseback and the hombre scowled.

Chapter I

JOHN LANE was riding a blood bay gelding of Arabian strain, but the pack horse which carried his 30 years' gaiter was Texas mustang, a grullo descendant of the Anadiluan Barbs brought over by Cortes. Sitting easy in the broad-horned, double-cinched saddle he rode up a long slope, and when he topped out on the hog-back ridge, he found the horizon southwestward bounded by a wild timbered uplift of mountain.

It was Lanie Steer Mountain, and for John Lane it was a landmark. Somewhere on the flank of that mountain lay the Four-Arrow ranch, and on the Four-Arrow he had a job.

The town of Twenty Springs huddled against the unseen flank of that hill — Comanche Hill — and in Twenty Springs, Lane was supposed to meet Col. Bob Richards, who'd made the trip up from San Antonio by stage coach while Lane angled down from Lampasas, nearly 200 miles behind him, beyond the junction of the Llano and the Colorado River.

It was a fair-sized town, with a long history of bloody strife reposing in the archives of Mexico City and Austin. This had been Apache land during the era of the Spaniards; the Mexicans and the Comanches had fought for possession of it, after the Mexicans had driven out the gachupines (the Spaniards) and after the Comanches had pushed back the Apaches.

Nowadays, with Major Jones and his Frontier Battalion of Texas Rangers cutting for red-skin signs in these parts, and with a host of buffalo hunters drawing the Indians onto warpaths farther north, this Twenty Springs Valley should have been peaceful, but it wasn't. It should have been a place where a cowboy like John Lane could have taken it easy. There were nesters there, and wherever there were nesters there was trouble. Lane had ways found. The first large business structure that Lane neared was Flinn's general store, and it, with its warehouses and loading docks, barns, sheds, corrals and parked freight wagons, covered a full block. It also smelled of salted buffalo hides, stacked under a shed to be jerkline hauled to the Kansas railroad.

On the opposite side of the street from Flinn's store building stood a banking house, and the block below the bank was the public square, not yet covered by a gringo courthouse.

Lane observed that the second largest structure in town was a saloon — Pat O'Meara's. There were saloons and gambling halls — and according to the legends on the upstairs windows, the upper floor of O'Meara's place had been rented to the county.

Out from the saloon hitching rail a Mexican girl stood in the street near a Mexican man on horseback, and Lane noticed she was watching him in coquettish fashion. She said something about him to the man on horseback, and the hombre scowled. The mount of the vaquero, facing toward Lane, was a bayo coyote, and belonged to the Quarter Circle M ranch, since it wore that iron on its hip, but its head, still and saddle, lavishly ornamented with silver, were undoubtedly the property of this young Mexican cowboy.

He was a chunky, dark-faced fellow in tight-fitting garb and expensive stepples — crowned sombrero, and was watching Lane with the steadiness of a lawny mountain lion — all because of whatever it was the girl had said about Lane.

She herself was more than good looking, with jet-black hair, olive skin and blue eyes. She was in the full bloom of womanhood, nicely curved and matured.

Touching his hat and ignoring the sweetly obsequious smile the girl gave him, he rode on.

A hotel stood on the corner below the plaza, Colonel Richards, arriving in Twenty Springs by stagecoach, would be waiting at this hotel, so Lane reined over to the edge of the street when he turned the corner.

Dismounting and ground-tying his bay, to which the pack horse was tethered, he headed for the hotel's deep gallery, longshanked spurs jingling, and he had a feeling that the pair in front of the saloon were still watching him.

"The clerk gave him the number of Colonel Richards' room without consulting the register. Everyone in West Texas knew Colonel Richards.

The colonel was white-haired and wore a goatee, and after making John Lane welcome to his hotel room, he said, "Well, son, I've tolled you into a mess here, it looks like."

"Squatters on the Four-Arrow range?"

Richards grunted.

"You want me to choose the nesters off Four-Arrow gringo — is that my job, Colonel?"

Colonel Richards gave a start, his eyes fully open. "No, no, John, is that what Major Jones told you?"

"That's the way I understood it."

"Well," the colonel said, "I wrote that letter rather hurriedly, and I guess I didn't make myself clear. No, John, what I want you to do is leave those nesters strictly alone. Don't take sides, one way or the other."

Lane lifted his brows. "I don't savvy it, Colonel."

"The Four-Arrow ranch isn't mine, John."

"Ross McKenzie and I, at one time, were partners in it, but I sold out to him and took a mortgage — by way of being fair to my heirs, you understand, in the event of my death. Ross was the one who died, though, not me. I assumed that the ranch had been taken over by Ross's daughter — his only child — and that she'd inherited the debt more pressing than the debt to me. Her name's Irma. Recently I got in touch with Irma and learned she's been back East, living with Ross's sister."

"Is she there now?"

"No, she's home. That is, she's here in Twenty Springs, not out on the ranch."

Silent at moment, Lane asked, "How did Ross McKenzie get killed? Nesters gun him?"

"No, he was killed by a horse," Lane said. "How did it happen?"

"Old enough to get married. She's got her wedding date all set."

"Who's been running the Four-Arrow for her?"

"Draper, the banker, was supposed to be looking after Irma's affairs, but he hasn't done a good job of it. He and Sorensen tangled; the nesters made a raid on the Four-Arrow because of it, and the crew quit."

Lane frowned. "Nobody on the ranch now?"

Colonel Richards shook his head. "Hasn't been for quite a while. Irma didn't know that all she came home. Draper never did write that the men had all quit."

"Sorensen a nester?"

Colonel Richards nodded. "Their leader."

"Thoughtful, Lane asked, "Just what will my job be, Colonel?"

"Until my mortgage is paid off, John, you'll be the Four-Arrow foreman."

"Maybe the girl won't want me for a foreman."

"That's already been settled. She and I have worked out an agreement, and she's to let me put a man on the Four-Arrow to take charge until I'm paid off."

Watching Colonel Richards intently, Lane said, "What's wrong with the man Miss McKenzie is fixing to marry? Seems to me he's the logical one to take charge of the ranch."

"Irma is marrying the county sheriff, and he's in no mood to resign."

Lane shook his head. "It doesn't sound so good to me, Colonel. Pushing papers around on the table in troubled fashion, the colonel said, 'Don't back out on me'

Sunday Store Operator Arrested

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. W. (Pat) Jones was arrested by police yesterday for operating his grocery store on Sunday.

Jones, an unsuccessful candidate for Pulaski County representative this summer, said he observed Saturdays as the Sabbath. He said some of his relatives were members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

A city ordinance requires grocers to close their stores on Sundays unless they conscientiously observe Saturday as the Sabbath.

Jones' case in municipal court was passed today until Friday. He was released under $100 bond.

Griffin Will Not Move the Senators

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Calvin Griffith, after all not to seek American League approval to move his baseball club out of Washington.

Instead, the Senators will remain in the nation's capital at least through the 1959 season.

Until late Sunday the son of night in a statement issued on the eve of a scheduled American League meeting purportedly to discuss the move.

Until late yesterday the son of the late Clark Griffith had fully intended to go through with his plan to seek the sanction of his fellow club owners to quit Washington. He had what he considered a generous offer from the Minnesota city, which recently approved a nine-million-dollar bond issue in its bid to attract a big league baseball team.

But less than an hour after his arrival here, Griffith became aware of the solid opposition lined up against him. At least four clubs were prepared to oppose him. That is, two more than the votes necessary to block any franchise shift attempt.

Although Griffith refused to admit he had seen the handwriting on the wall, it is known that New York, Boston, Kansas City and Cleveland were almost certain to vote against him.

League President Will Harridge said he was personally against moving the club out of Washington. BECA "it would be a tragedy for the nation's capital."

The beleaguered Griffith left the door open for a possible shift attempt in the future, however. Asked whether he intended to renew his efforts to move before Oct. 31, deadline, he said: "I doubt it."

Then he added: "But no one can say they'll stay in one place the rest of his life. We've got problems in Washington. They must be resolved. I'm going to present them to the league meeting tomorrow."

Memphis TV Starts Class Broadcasting

MEMPHIS (AP) — Educational television station WWSN today began broadcasting classes in physics to 67 high schools in the Mid-South area.

In Memphis and West Tennessee, 23 schools will take part in Arkansas and 4 in Mississippi. The course runs through May.

Many servicemen at the Memphis Naval Air Station also will take the course, which is open to all.

"I'm depending on you, son."

"I'm not backing out."

The colonel's goateed features relaxed. He said, "Now I don't want you to have any trouble with Sorensen and those fellows. And keep away from Sorensen. Because he's a nester, prejudiced against you. He knows your reputation."

Pushing papers around on the table in troubled fashion, the colonel said, "Don't back out on me"
